RIVER VICTIMS TO REST SIDE BY SIDE

Rites For Two Rollins Brothers Tomorrow at 4 P. M.

PARENTS OVERCOME

Services to be Held in Del Ray Baptist Church—Companions of Boys For Bearers.

Two white caskets stand side by side today at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Rollins, Bellfonte avenue, Del Ray, containing the remains of their two sons, Harold and Lee Rollins, ten and eight years respectively, who were drowned in Four Mile run yesterday.

The final rites for the two boys will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Del Ray Baptist Church and the services will be conducted by Rev. Willis L. Wayts, pastor of the Del Ray Baptist Church, assisted by Rev. Dr. E. B. Jackson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city. The bodies will be buried side by side in the Presbyterian cemetery. Each little casket will be carried to its last resting place by four boys, companions of the dead brothers.

The parents of the boys were prostrated over the tragic ending of the lads. Hundreds of persons have called at the Rollins home to express their sympathy and also to pay a tribute to the heroism of little Lee Rollins, unable to swim, who gave up his life in an effort to save his older brother Harold Rollins from a watery grave.

James H. Rollins, father of the boys, arrived home shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Washington, he being employed as a clerk in the War Department. Mr Rollins was not aware of the fact that the lives of two of his sons had been snuffed out, only one being reported to him as drowned. His son Richard, eleven years old, left home yesterday morning on a motor trip for Philadelphia and reacher home at 7 o'clock last night in response to a telegram. He also was overcome upon learning of the double tragedy. Mr and Mrs. Rollins in addition to their son Richard also have a daughter Virginia Rollins, six years old. Residents of the town of Potomac are overcome by the double drowning, the lads being popular residents of the town. Both boys were pupils at the Mount Vernon avenue school.

Governorship
A State Office

Mathews, C. H., June 21.—"Twelve of Virginia's foremost citizens are today in Washington, sent there by the will of our people, to represent Virginia in the Federal Congress, and safeguard our Constitution and its rights. I believe that Senator Swanson and Senator Glass and our ten Congressmen are competent to guard our interests, and I feel confident that they will," said Senator E. Lee Trinkle, candidate for Governor, speaking to the voters at Mathews Courthouse today, while discussing the slogan of his opponent, 'Back to the Constitution,' "The problem confronting us today is not the selection of a Senator or a Congressman, but of a man to serve as the State's executive for the next four years, who can conduct a business administration of the State's affairs, along progressive and economical lines."

One thousand people crowded the courthouse green to hear Senator Trinkle. Plans to have him speak in the courthouse were abandoned owing to the number of people, and the meeting was held in the open.

The Senator's practical discussion of the State's problems—schools, roads, taxation—showed his intimate knowledge of the public finances, and impressed his hearers, who gave him an enthusiastic reception.

Two Small Fires

Burning Grass Causes One And Electric Iron Said to be Responsible For Other

Burning grass in the rear of the St. John's Episcopal Chapel on Duke street extended near the old Toll Gate caused an alarm of fire at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon and threatened the chapel together with an adjoining house. A fire alarm was sounded and the fire department responded and after half an hour subdued the flames, preventing them reaching the chapel or other houses

An electric iron in the kitchen of the residence of Mrs. Rose F. Chiswell on the second floor of 621 Duke street, is said to have been responsible for a fire at 12:30 o'clock this morning. The firemen quickly subdued it with chemical extinguishers before much damage was done, the fire being confined to the kitchen.

MISSING SHIPS PUZZLES OFFICIALS

Three Vessels Vanish on Atlantic—Crew of Another Disappears

SOME SURMISE RAIDER

Other Reports Lead to Belief Vessels Were Taken to Soviet Ports—Bottle Furnishes Clue.

Washington, June 21.—A mystery of missing ships is hanging over the mid Atlantic Coast, which, it was disclosed today, five departments of the Federal Government are investigating

One vessel, a sailing ship, was stranded on Diamond Shoals, off the Hatteras coast, without any sign of its crew having been discovered. Circumstances indicating piracy were strengthened by the subsequent finding of a bottle containing a message from the mate.

Three small steamers have disappeared, it is learned, within recent weeks. While those familiar with the case of the schooners are inclined to the opinion that the steamers also were victims of some strange piratical raider, Secretary of Commerce Hoover was in possession of information which raised the possibility that there is Bolshevism afloat and that the three ships may have been taken over by their crews and diverted to ports of Soviet Russia. All four vessels, it seems, were in the coast wise trade.

The facts, so far as they have become known in each case, have been brought to the attention of the Departments of State, Navy, Commerce Justice and Treasury. Secretary Hughes has given orders to all American consular officers to keep a sharp lookout for the arrival of any of the vessels or members of their crews. The navy is assisting the Coast Guard of the Treasury Department in patrolling the coast, it is stated. The Department of Commerce, through in Bureau of Navigation, is in touch with the deep-sea mystery, and it was stated at the Department of Justice this afternoon that the Attorney-General had assigned "some of his best men" to make an investigation of the cases that have arisen.

So far there is nothing but theories as to the fate of the three steamers, while such facts as are known regarding the schooner comprise a story rivalling any sea tale of imaginative fiction.

This vessel, the Carroll A. Deering, a four-master, of Portland, Maine, bound north from Rio Janerio, was sighted by the Diamond Shoals lightship late one afternoon in January. The two vessels exchanged greetings and all seemed to be well aboard.

The following morning the schooner, all sails set was discovered ashore on Diamond Shoals, the quicksand beach off Hatteras, known to navigators as the "graveyard of the Atlantic." The schooner was boarded by Coast Guardsmen from a neighboring life saving station, but not the slightest sign of life was found. Food was on the table in the galley and the officers' mess, but officers and crew had disappeared without leaving any token to show what had become of them.

A revenue cutter was dispatched to the schooner and an attempt made to tow her into deep water, but she broke to pieces and the attempt was abandoned. Meanwhile a general alarm went forth to all live-savers on the Hatteras coast to watch for bodies. None has ever been found, nor has any lifeboat, life preservers or articles of clothing been washed ashore to indicate that the crew might have perished. Coast Guard officials discussing the cast last night, said that it was not unusual for a ship to disappear as did the Cyclops during the war, or for a ship to go down with the crew afloat in small boats. But they said it was a rare occurrence for a ship to survive in this fashion and the crew to disappear.

No clue to the mystery was found until April, when a fisherman 40 miles north of Hatteras fished out of the water a corked bottle and inside was a paper with a message signed with the name of the mate of the Deering. The message read:

"A large tanker or submarine has boarded us and placed our crew in irons. Get word to headquarters at once. I am in hiding."

This message was dispatched to the headquarters of the Deering fleet. The handwriting on the scrap of paper was compared by experts with the handwriting of the missing mate.

The paper on which the note was scribbled was of Norwegian manufacture. This was taken as evidence the ship had been at her South American port and was returning, for Norwegian paper is largely exported to South America.

Bank Deposit Tax

Candidate Foulks Candidate For Corporation Commission Gives Views

Richmond, Va., June 21.—Former State Senator E. C. Folkes, candidate for the corporation commission, addressed voters of Louisa county yesterday. In the course of his address, he said:

I urged that our commission make a recommendation to the general assembly that the tax on deposits in banks be abolished. From all sections I have received views of our citizens who approve this. All express the belief that the banks would thereby have more money to lend for purposes of agriculture, housebuilding and general development. In a day of heavier taxes every where, why can we not declare one little dividend in favor of the people

I call to the particular attention of our people that they may pass resolutions until the end of time about improving Hampton Roads, and all the cities, counties and the state may desire to contribute to its greater usefulness, but it will not avail. Citizens of the high usefulness of H. L. Ferguson, of Newport News, may say that the state and the municipalities should assist, as in the construction of the R. F. and P. Railway, but through the general assembly might be unanimous, it will not avail. Why? Section 185 of the state constiuttion positively forbids it, "Under any device or pretense whatsoever" the State, counties or cities shall not assist in these things.

Not one of our former constitutions carried anything of this character, and I repeat now what I said in February, before the general discussion in our state press started about improving Hampton Roads, that our corporation commission should recommend to the general assembly that our rights under all former constiuttions should be restored. This policy would leave us free, unpledged to anything, but with freedom to act on internal improvements as we may desire.

I reiterate that our commission erred in raising telephone rates in Virginia. Its opinion discloses that the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, the Bell concern in this state, pays to the "parent company," the American Telephone and Telegraph Company 4 1-2 per cent of its entire gross receipts, and that some other state commissions treat this as a dividend. Even if they did not, it would not alter the fact that it is a dividend for the "parent company" is paying 9 per cent, dividend out of the 4 1-2 per cent gross receipts of their several "child companies." Surely it is a poor policy for our commission to be for ever preaching that the telephone corporations do not pay in Virginia and then make such statements in their own opinion.

"My statement has no application to Berkeley D. Adams' my opponent however, for the reason that having taken one year, less two days, in which to study the proposition.

MAYOR VETOES ANNUAL BUDGET

Veto Will Be Presented to City Council Tuesday Night

CITES FAULTS IN BILL

Calls Attention to Need of School and Sewers—Figures in Appropriation Bill Given

Mayor Duncan will return to city council his veto to the annual appropriation bill for the city appropriating a part of the city revenue for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1922. This will be presented to the city council at its next meeting which will be held next Tuesday night.

His veto follows:

June 20th, 1921.

To the City Council of the City of Alexandria, Va.

Gentlemen:-

I return herewith without my approval the ordinance passed by the Common Council, May 24th, 1921, entitled An Act to appropriate a part of the City's Revenue for the Fiscal Year ending May 31st, 1922. This ordinance contains a notation on the back to the effect that the action of the Common Council was concurred in by the Board of Aldermen, June th, 1921, and is signed by the Clerk, but the ordinance has not been signed by the President of the Board of Aldermen.

I am not able to lend my approval to this ordinance for the reason that it purports to be an appropriation of a part of the city's revenue for the year ending May 31st, 1922. It actually appropriates two hundred and sixty nine thousand ($269,000) dollars three thousand dollars more than the estimated annual income of the city which is two hundred and sixty six thousand ($266,000) dollars. While it exceeds the income, it fails to take care of five thousand dollars due in December, 1921. The City has an overdraft of several thousand dollars for the month of June, figures not yet available, which no mention is made of.

It is the duty of the Council to conduct the City's affairs as economically as possible, which was one of the reasons given for opposing the bond issue formerly recommended by me. It seems to me that this ordinance providing for appropriations, signally fails in an attempt to carry out that purpose. I especially call your attention to the estimate of twenty thousand ($20,000) dollars for the cleaning of the city streets, which is very much in excess for the service we get, and especially so if it were done by contract, which I recommended some months ago. The facts being that for the year ending May 31st, 1921, it actually cost to clean the streets and remove the ashes of the city the sum of twenty four thousand and seventy five dollars. I make no reference to the condition of the streets, as every citizen will know for himself what the condition is, but I do not hesitate in saying that the condition of the streets with regard to cleanliness has not in my opinion warranted an expenditure of so large an amount of money.

I especially call attention also to the sum of thirty five thousand ($35,000) dollars to be spent for street work. I would recommend that this be appropriated to pay the shortage referred to above.

There is an estimate for chain gang and board of prisoners of one thousand ($1000) dollars. There is no chain gang.

There is also appropriations for poor house, outdoor poor, associated charities, and home for the aged, which amount in all to sixty-two hundred ($6200) dollars. No citizen of this town is more interested in or sympathetic with the unfortunate nor more ready to give assistance to them than I am, but it is necessary for me to have more information on the proposed disposition and distribution of the money thus to be appropriated before I can agree to the amount named.

In addition to this I find the further fault with this appropriation bill that there is but forty thousand ($40,000) dollars appropriated for public schools. This I assume is for salaries of teachers and operating expenses of the schools. It is known and has frequently been called to the attention of Council that the school board made request for one hundred and ten thousand ($110,000) dollars to be spent in the erection of a new school building,, and changing the interior of the boys' school on South Washington street from eight rooms to twelve, in order that the children of Alexandria may be provided with proper school buildings they can attend. It is admitted that our school facilities are inadequate and it seems to me of the greatest importance that provision to cure these defects should at once be made. I shall certainly do what I can do to secure ample school facilities.

It seems proper that I should also call attention to the fact that no appropriation is made for the construction of or for work on sewers. The situation with regard to health has been criticized. There is at Rosemont, where a very large percentage of citizens pass and repass daily, and three hundred families or more reside, and are subject to the evil effects it may produce, an open sewer which the City Council has failed to take care of, and for which it is responsible. In fairness to these citizens who were forcibly made residents of the City of Alexandria, a sewer should be constructed there that would safeguard the health of all. The trunk sewer in the northeast section of the city was inspected by the City Engineer, the street committee, the health department and the mayor about June 1st, and found in a very dangerous condition. I note that there is no mention made of this.

There are other matters which might be called to your attention but for the present the reasons I have given seem sufficient to warrant my disapproval of this ordinance and I am obliged to disapprove it.

Yours Very Truly,

J. M. DUNCAN, Mayor.

The appropriation bill follows:

An act to appropriate a part of the City Revenue for the Fiscal Year ending May 31, 1922.

Section 1—Be it enacted by the City Council of Alexandria that a part of the revenue of the City for the year ending May 31, 1922, be and the same is hereby appropriated as follows:

Robert Burns.

Colonel House

The Republican press has of late busied itself in making announcement that there would be no Colonel House in the Harding administration. One important reason might well be that they have not his equal within their ranks. The nearest approach to his peculiar genius would be perhaps Elihu Root. But while his political foes admit his great ability as a statesman; and while the American bar concedes his transcendent talents as a lawyer, still the fact remains that the American people do not place their confidence in him as a man. He has never lived down his unfortunate connection with the Boss Tweed scandals in the seventies. Nor has his subsequent career been so entirely free from suspicion as to warrant the masses in giving to him their implicit faith.

We spoke of the genius of Col. House. We use this word advisedly. If we were to define it in two words, we would say that he was giftest with the genius of common sense beyond any man of his time. For many years he was the dictator of political fortunes in his native state—Texas. He was the Warwick of that almost imperial domain. The leaders knew him, and knew him intimately. He was consulted by them in every important departure from routine politics. He made and unmade governors and United States senators, and controlled the complexion of the state legislature. He was trusted with the blind faith of a child in its father, because of his utter unselfishness, because of his devotion to the public welfare, and because of his unerring judgment.

He, perhaps more than any other man, directed the destinies of the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson for his first term as president of the United States. It was the natural sequence of events that Mr. Wilson should have learned to know him and to trust him during the earlier years of his administration. His far-seeing and penetrating mind recognized those qualities in which he, himself, was lacking. He beheld, too, a man who sought nothing for himself; who looked at the world problems that were looming up ominously on the horizon with eyes that beheld only his country's welfare in their solution, and who saw with prophetic vision the shining leadership that country was destined to assume.

There is no doubt that colonel House was for a time the sole influence upon the subtle mind of his chief. And so long as President Wilson yielded to this influence, so long was he impregnable in his attitude and decisions in the momentous events that were changing the trend of history.

Whatever may have been the cause of the final divergance of these two remarkable minds, the fact remains unchallenged that Colonel House was leaned upon and looked up to as no other private citizen had ever been by the ruler of a country. More than an ambassador plenipotentiary, given powers that were illimitable because of no circumscription by the written word, Colonel House visited the leading statesmen of Europe in a time crucial and momentous in its bearing upon the future of civilization—and talked with them as man to man, as intellect to intellect—and earned thier respect and admiration.

Only from the lips of these two living men can the truth ever be had as to their final separation. And knowing both men as we do, we feel safe in predicting that the silence of the grave will be the silence that seals their lips irrevocably and forever.

Colonel House is yet a man in the vigor of middle age. We can only hope that the great Democratic Party will command his unparalleled services again in its councils, and that it will again profit by them as it has in the past. The American people will yet need that party, as in former years of stress and trial, when the Republicans were leading it astray after false gods,—to guide it in those paths which make for national righteousness and well-being.

We cannot believe that Colonel House has achieved his destiny. We are firm in our conviction that he will be called on again and again to devote his great genius to the service of his country.

If Not, Why Not?

The matter of increased fares on the Washington-Virginia Railway will come up soon before the State Corporation Commission, at Richmond. Has our Chamber of Commerce arranged for representation at this hearing? If not, why not?

We are of the opinion that the same attorney who represented that body at the hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission should represent his clients at Richmond. He is familiar with the facts, he is fully competent,—why drop the matter now? Perhaps the State Commission will take a more lenient view than the Interstate Commerce Commission as regards the equities in the case. At any rate, so long as we have right and justice on our side, let us keep up the fight!—Perhaps, even the hearing at Richmond is not the last trench. We will consider that when we come to it. But meantime let us keep everlastingly at it!

Is it a question of money? The fees charged by the attorneys for services had and performed are reasonable and fair. The laborer has been worthy of his hire. It means thousands of dollars in the pockets of the people to defeat this iniquitous raise, and they should not grudge the additional expense involved in fighting the matter to the last ditch.

We hope the Commuters' Association and the Chamber of Commerce will see to it that the citizens of Alexandria are represented at the Richmond hearing.

THE EARTH COULD BE SWALLOWED BY THE WHIRLING VORTEX OF A SUN-SPOT

Our ancestral sun, as pictured by Laplace, originally extended in a state of luminous vapor beyond the boundaries of the solar system. Rotating upon its axis, it slowly contracted through loss of heat by radiation, leaving behind it portions of its mass, which condensed to form the planets. Still gaseous, though now denser than water, it continues to pour out the heat on which our existence depends as it shrinks imperceptibly toward its ultimate condition of a cold and darkened globe.

Laplace's hypothesis has been subjected in recent years to much criticism, and there is good reason to doubt whether his description of the mode of evolution of our solar system is correct in every particular. All critics agree, however, that the sun was once enormously larger than it now is, and that the planets originally formed part of its distended mass.

Even in its present diminished state, the sun is huge beyond easy conception. Our own earth, through so minute a fragment of the primeval sun, is nevertheless so large that some parts of its surface have not yet been explored. Seen beside the sun, by an observer on one of the plants, the earth would appear as insignificant speck, which could be swallowed with ease by the whirling vortex of a sun spot. If the sun were hollow, with the earth at its centre, the moon, though 240,000 miles from us, would have room and to spare in which to describe its orbit, for the sun is 866,000 miles in diameter, so that its volume is more than a million times that of the earth.

But what of the stars, proved by the spectroscope to be self-luminous, intensely hot, and formed of the same chemical elements that constitute the sun and the earth? Are they comparable in size with the sun? Do they occur in all stages of development, from infancy to old age? And if such stages can be detected, do they afford indications of the gradual diminution in volume which Laplace imagined the sun to experience?

From "Giant Stars," by George Ellery Hale, in the July Scribner.

KEEPING CHILDREN IN SCHOOL

Every state now has a compulsory day school attendance law according to information recently furnished by the U. S. Department of Labor through the Children's Bureau.

In five states attendance is required until 18 years of age, in two of these in certain districts only; in three until 17; and in thirty-two until 16. One state requires attendance until 15, six others and the District of Columbia until 14, and one state requires attendance until the age of 12 years, but applies this to illiterates only.

They have, however, unfortunately, so many exemptions in the majority of states that the application of the law is greatly himted. The most common exemptions are for employent or upon completion of a specified school grade.

In many states the attendance required demands only 12, 16 or 20 weeks in a year.

VIRGINIA NEWS

The Virginia Bankers' Association at Hot Springs, Va., Saturday elected N. H. Williams, of Chase City, president. G. R. Radcliffe, Manassas; vice president; W. S. Augustine, Richmond, secretary; W. S. Irby, Kendricks, treasurer. Among the speakers were Senator Edge, New Jersey; Dr. Dabney, University of Virginia, and Sherman Rogers, of New York. Senator Edge condemned paternalism in government. He also declared that rates in the permanent tariff should be "substantially lower than in the Payne-Aldrich tariff," and reminded protectionists of the fact that "with $15,000,000,000 owed to America we must encourage reasonable imports, and not depend entirely on increased tariff receipts as against payment in goods." Judge D. L. Groner, of Norfolk, and Robert N. Harper, of Washington, were the principal speakers at the banquet which brought the convention to a close.

The live wire hotel men of the Commonwealth—in semi-annual convention in Richmond went on record as being opposed to the "blue Sunday" law enforcement, appointed a committee to perfect plans for the issuance of an illustrated booklet showing the natural attractions throughout the State, named a committee on good roads to co operate in every movement for the maintenance of present highways and the construction of the roads under the State highway system as planned, and selected the Princess Anne Hotel, Fredericksburg, Va., as the next meeting place on Saturday, December 17.

MARINE PLANE BRINGS AID TO DISABLED SUB-CHASER

(Special to the Gazette)

Washington, June 21.—How Marine Corps aviators aided a disabled submarine chaser in the Caribbean Sea by delivering a spare motor part from their aviation supply base at Port au Prince, is told in an official letter received today by Marine Corps Headquarters, from Major F. T. Evans, of the Marine Flying Squadron in Haiti. The plan used was one of the most novel yet recorded.

There are no passable roads from Port au Prince across the peninsula to Aux Cayes, where a few hundred yards off shore the disabled chaser lay, and no place where an airplane could land. It was decided to box up the spare motor part, attach the box and a 30 foot cable to an improvised floating buoy, and to drop the entire contrivance overboard close by the chaser where it could be picked up by the crew.

The plan worked successfully. The Marines made the 100 mile journey from Port au Prince, wig-wagged the chaser to stand by for a little 90 pound package, dropped it over the side of their airplane and returned to their station. The motor part was undamaged, and after the crew of chaser had fished it out of the Caribbean and installed it in their vessel they continued their journey to Santo Domingo City.

PAINS IN SIDE AND BACK
Caused by Woman's Ills and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Grafton, Pa.—"I was troubled with inflammation and pains in my sides and back. After doctoring with different doctors and not getting relief, I had almost given up hopes when my sister told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and knowing that she had really been helped by it, I purchased it. I was unable to do my work at that time, but after taking several bottles of the Vegetable Compound I can now do anything about the house or farm that a woman should do. I have a four months old baby that is the healthiest and biggest baby for his age that I have ever seen. I am willing for my letter to be used for a testimonial to tell other suffering women how much your medicine has done for me, as I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all the praise."—Mrs. BLAIR L. FISHER, R. D. 1, Box 87, Grafton, Pa.

Working early and late—lifting, carrying, and the heaviest of houshold duties—is it any wonder that it results in backaches and kindred ills. But every woman who suffers as Mrs. Fisher did should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

Gubernatorial Race

Richmond, Va., June 21.—Senator E. Lee Trinkle, candidate for Governor, was at headquarters today, returning from a trip through Gloucester, King and Queen, Essex, Middlesex and Mathews. Although it has been reported that his opponent has much strength in these counties, Mr. Trinkle was gratified to find such strong evidences of support for his candidacy as to encourage the belief that this section of the State will give him a handsome majority in the August primary. At each meeting place he is greeted by a large number of women [illegible] him that the support of the women will go in the main to him.

It is stated by those in charge of Trinkle headquarters that following each speech by Mr. Tucker there is a large acquisition of pledges to Mr. Trinkle by women voters.

Straw Vote
58 to 30 For Trinkle

Richmond, Va., June 21.— A poll of the delegation from Tidewater Virginia attending the Hampton Roads Port Commission meeting in Richmond was taken by the editor of a paper in that section, a member of the delegation (himself for Tucker, but his wife, like most other women, for Trinkle) resulted in a total of fifty-eight voters for Trinkle and thirty for Tucker. The editor was game, and sent the poll to his own paper.

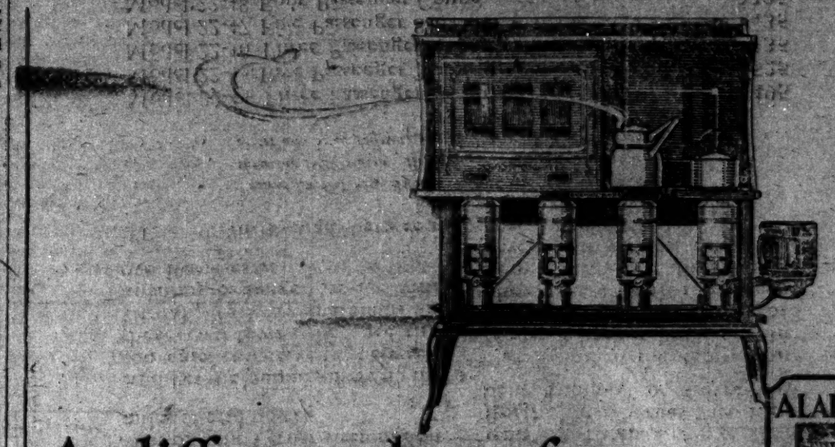
Charlottesville, Frank Michie, aged 50, a substantial farmer, residing near Rio Mills, was fatally injured by an infuriated bull on his place Friday and died Saturday at University Hospital. Mr. Michie was superintending the milking of his cows at the barn when, without warning, the stock bull of the herd, who was deborned but known to be vicious, suddenly attacked him. Before aid could be rendered, the infuriated animal had thrown Mr. Michie upon the ground and stamped him. Mr. Michie was a son of Capt. E. Clay Michie, Confederate veteran and leader in the county.



ALADDIN SECURITY OIL
STANDARD OIL COMPANY

A different heat for every burner, if need be

YOU don't have to "rush the fire" to bake—two burners of the New Perfection Oil Cook Stove will give you all the heat you need. And you boil a vegetable and make coffee on the other two burners if you wish. Plenty of heat, just where you want it and in the right amount—none wasted. You can regulate it.

The white-tipped flame of the New Perfection gives an intense heat and keeps the bottoms of your utensils clean—doesn't soot them up. Hence it lightens labor. And the chimney is made long for a purpose; every bit of the oil you use has a chance to burn up completely and produce its full share of heat. This is a big item of fuel saving for those who use the New Perfection exclusively.

Kitchens equipped with New Perfections—over 3,000,000 of them—are invariably cooler and more comfortable to work in. It's a great relief to be rid of coal, ashes, dust and wood in the kitchen. And there are fewer corners to collect dirt.

The New Perfection is made in one, two, three, four and five burner sizes—warming cabinet or not, as you prefer. Of course, you will want a New Perfection Oven, too.

Aladdin Security Oil gives uniform, satisfactory results. You should use it regularly. It is economical because it's pure—all heat.

New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves are sold at most department, furniture and hardware stores.

"In summer the temperature ranges as high as 110°; in winter as low as zero, with the road often covered with 12 inches of snow. The two Buicks have never been off this route—are operating there today."
